NOTICE

We recently moved our office from the location at SE 145 Kamiaken to N. 130 Grand Ave. This move was made necessary because of our need for a larger office. We are sharing space with Whitman County Title Company. Because we have two insurance companies operating from the same office we decided it would create less confusion if we changed the name to Whitman Insurance, Inc. There is no change in the management of our agency except that we have added as a licensed agent, Mike Agee, who is owner of the title company. We have also moved the State Department of Licensing to the new location. We hope this move will benefit our customers and not prove confusing to you. Please call if you have any questions.

New firm combines many talents

By Don Hines

The formation of "W.T. Weatherly and Associates," specialists in personnel, labor relations, and civil and criminal investigation, has been announced by Ted Weatherly.

Currently Pullman's police chief, Weatherly said the firm will include Nick Natiello of Bellevue, with 30 years experience in personnel with private, public, and national corporations; John A. Bollweg, Pullman resident with 20 years experience in public administration and in personnel and in labor relations; as investigators are F. William Paulson, retired chief of police from Pullman, with more than 18 years experience in law enforcement investigation and administration experience; and Steven Tomson, formerly a sergeant with the Pullman Police Department, now in agri-business near Pullman.

Weatherly said he is considering an application from a business graduate of the University of Washington with major study in labor and personnel management. "I will be likely interviewing him toward bringing him in as an associate."

"These people have been selected because they are local residents, but also possess expertise—have the needed skills to handle personnel or investigatory matters. All have dealt with union contract and some form of personnel discipline," he said.

In order to remain in Pullman, and to insure his family's security, his own long-term job security, and to maintain and challenge his professional skills and abilities, he has decided to test market the new business in the private sector, Weatherly said.

The intent of the enterprise is to tie the personnel relation management and investigatory functions together, and to serve the area of Washington east of the Cascades, Northern Idaho, Western Montana, and the Northeastern Oregon.

Weatherly said there will be no conflict of interest between his present job and the business. Possible areas of conflict have been discussed with John Sherman, city supervisor, and eliminated, Weatherly said.

"I will be functioning in the enterprise on my own time," Weatherly said.

Any conflict of time also is unlikely. But if any arises, Weatherly said that he expected to resolve this with a short leave of absence.

None of the associates are employed by the City of Pullman.

Each associate will contract out to perform business tasks according to their special expertise.

The associates are geared to assist organizations with personnel or labor relations problems. Weatherly said he was led to form the group by private as well as public officials who cited a need to be served by qualified individuals in personnel and labor negotiations and criminal and other investigations.

"Of advantage to our clients is our central location and our ability to function on their behalf at reasonable prices. We have a 24-hour answering device and a separate phone at the business address, NW 230 Dillon St."

Weatherly said.

Weatherly, has had a long career in police work including public safety administration, and he holds a MA degree in public administration from USC, with extensive classwork in labor relations and personnel administration classes.

"As director, Pullman's Department of Public Safety, the challenges of the position met my expectations. But the scope of my responsibilities now as chief of police have been reduced," he said. I have been encouraged by several knowledgeable people in the field to form the associates," he said.
